This 32' Allied Seawind II Ketch, 1977 Is For Sale And Located In Atlantic Highlands, NJ.

This is a great classic midsized sailing yacht. Cruise to those hideaway destinations in comfort and style.

The Allied Seawind is famous for being the first fiberglass sailboat model to circumnavigate the earth. The Seawind II is the improved version of the old classic. The long-keeled hull with a protected rudder allow her to easily maneuver. Tensed-up tackle is no match for her three-inch thick bulwarks. Handmade by American craftsmen on the shores of the Hudson River, the Seawind II is built to exceed specifications, and her ketch design makes her ideal in rough seas. The ship-shape Maros II has been single-handed by her skipper up and down the New England coast countless times.

She is just as brawny as beautiful - the 6' 2" cabin features lots of teak, lining the sole and as varnished accents. The galley is ready with a deep sink and a two-burner stove. Two cherry wood doors lead into both entrances of the head - one from the storage-lined v-berth and the other from the spacious main cabin. She is as easy to live aboard as she is to sail for the day.

A dinghy is also available.

*She can be seen by appoint by contacting the listing broker today. Her owner is motivated and will consider all reasonable offers.
